Installing the FileMaker Client (FM 18)

Last Modified on 07/24/2020 10:29 am EDT

Overview

For successfully working with this guide:

- Have at least the minimum FM18 certified operating system installed on your computer.
- Have administrator privileges on your computer.
 Note: You may need to adjust preferences on your Mac to install apps that aren't from the Mac App Store.
- Obtain these resources from your system administrator (noting the location on your computer where they get placed):
 - A FileMaker (FM) installer
 - A license certificate file (i.e. fmcert)

Installation Process

aACE is built using FileMaker Pro Advanced. This allows developers to leverage the FileMaker platform to customize aACE as necessary, providing a perfect fit at a lower cost and higher quality than expensive alternatives. To use aACE, you must first install FileMaker:

1. Locate and double-click your FileMaker Installer.

2. Double-click the installation package.
